Two Juveniles Picked Up Here

Two juveniles driving a stolen car were captured here Sunday night, by officer Walter O'Leary, who one week ago was responsible for the capture of two Haverhill youths wanted for breaking and entering and larceny of a car in Lawrence.

The boys, both 16, were captured at Falmouth rd., after officer O'Leary had chased them a short distance on Mystic st.

The officer saw the car speeding and as he pursued the vehicle he noted the number plate was listed on his stolen car list.

The car was owned by Harvey J. Suprenant, 85 Carmine st., Lowell, who reported it stolen to Lowell police Sunday afternoon.

Patrolman O'Leary was responsible for the capture of two other youths last Monday, who had broken into a gas station in Lawrence and robbed it of $50. They stole a car parked near-by, were caught in Arlington after committing a traffic violation, and turned over to Lawrence Police.

Arlington Gas Company Will Have Natural Gas Supplied

Arlington Baptist Church To Add Wing

The first Baptist Church Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, will begin construction this week of a $120,000 three-story wing to provide additional facilities for its youth work and increasing membership it was announced today by the pastor, the Rev. Nathan W. Wood, and William S. Patterson, chairman of the building committee.

The structure, which will conform with the gothic lines and brown seam-faced granite of the main edifice, will be dedicated as a memorial to church members who served their country in both World War I and World War II.

In the first war three members gave their lives, and in the second, a total of 13 died on battle grounds throughout the world. Some 200 members served in the last war.

More than $52,000 already has been raised by members to finance construction of the building.

During the six years Mr. Wood has been pastor membership has increased 200 to 1200 on the rolls of the church.

Natural Gas Here Winter Of '51-'52

Natural gas will be brought to this area by the winter of 1951-52 if present construction plans of Northeastern Gas Transmission Company can be carried forward without delay, it was stated today by Everett C. Bryant, vice president and manager of the Arlington Gas Light Company.

Mr. Bryant said that the Northeastern Company, which recently received a certificate from the Federal Power Commission to run pipe lines into the New England area, has been ordered to supply the Arlington Company, and presently is engaged in completing line surveys and acquiring rights of way necessary to install natural gas in areas covered by its certificate in Massachusetts.

Northeastern's present plans call for actual construction work on the line to begin next spring or as soon as weather conditions permit. The pipe line will have two main sources of supply into this area; one from New York State east into Pittsfield, and another from Greenwich north to Springfield, at which point, the two main lines will be inter-connected.

At present, natural gas is being piped from the gas fields in the Southwest as far north as Buffalo and New York City.

Mr. Bryant disclosed that plans of the local company for change-over to natural gas have been under study for the last 18 months by the company and the New England Electric System, of which the local unit is a subsidiary. Conversions and Surveys, Inc., the largest and most experienced firm of its kind in the country, has been engaged to convert customers' appliances so that householders can burn the new type of gas.

The New York company will send 400 to 500 men into this area and all work on customers' premises will be done by this group.

Two factors, the local company officer pointed out, could cause delay in getting gas into this area; namely, material shortages and unseasonably bad weather. Northeastern Gas Transmission Company, for the last six months, however, has been stock-piling many of the materials which will be needed in the project, and unless government restrictions and allocations prevent procurement of other essential supplies, no shortages are anticipated. Weather also will be important. An early spring in 1951 will mean a quick start which might advance the arrival date of natural gas while on the other hand an unseasonably bad spring could mean further delay, he added.

Tells Rotary Of Education's Service Plans

Addressing the Arlington Rotary Club at its meeting, Wednesday, November 22, Dean Albert E. Everett, Director of the Evening Division, Northeastern University, spoke on "Education and Industry—Co-Partners for Progress."

He discussed the long period in which uncertainty will be the order of the day and pointed out that in such a period education is more important than ever. Continuing Dean Everett said, "Our future demands that we all be partners - partners for survival if you will - but most assuredly partners for progress if we are to win through to ultimate world unity."

He explained Northeastern's policy of maintaining an active, intimate relationship with the needs of the community and spoke of the University's "in service" program of course for industry. These courses he said were held on company premises, usually during working hours, and were custom designed to meet the immediate needs of particular companies. He cited industries where such courses had been offered, including the Watertown Arsenal, Esso Standard Oil Company, Liggett Company, Allis Chalmers, Waltham Screw Company, Gillette Safety Razor Company, and others.

Arlington Favorite In Annual Holiday Gridiron Feature

By

Frank Mahoney

One year ago this week, a bowl bound Arlington high school eleven was seeking its clincher for a championship season. They were after the scalps of a winless Melrose high. Tomorrow a large crowd will turn out at Melrose to watch the 1949 class "A" champs try to make it seven wins, one loss and one tie for 1950.

The Melrose gridsters lost all of their games last year, but this year have a better although not too pressive record.

Melrose has beaten Medford, 12 to 6. They have tied, Watertown, Gloucester, Wakefield, and Haverhill and have lost to Newton, 13-6; Malden, 13-0 and Cambridge Latin, 13-6. The team did not score against Malden but held them to a net gain of 31 yards. Only seven touchdowns have been scored against the raiders this year.

Coach Dave Gavin says his club will be up for the Arlington club and he's confident of a victory. The Melrose club works exclusively out of a split T with a very shifty quarterback doing the calling.

The Melrose line averages 166-170 pounds and the backfield is lighter at 155. The coach thinks his team will be in the air most of the day, depending on the weather.

Coach Toz had little to say about tomorrow's annual. He has been working his team in light drills and signal calling all week. He abandoned hard contact scrimmage to avoid anyone being hurt. The starting lineup will be the same as last week.

Toz would make no prediction of the outcome saying, "It's a traditional game which means plenty of rivalry. Records mean nothing. We will play a hard game and I hope we will be victors."

Among the junior and senior high school students who will appear on the Student Radio Club over W. C. O. P. next Sunday will be:

Richard Lanon, 176 Park ave., and Robert Hanlon, 111 Webster st., who will play a trumpet duet.

This will be the third year in which Arlington has been in the Metropolitan league, which boasts of the best in high school track.

Arlington won the championship in 1948, the year of the league's conception. Watertown took the title last year.

All of the meets scheduled will be run at the East Armory on East Newton st., Boston. Arlington is lined up to meet Brookline, Medford, Somerville, Watertown, Rindge and Quincy.

"Doc" says he is starting a green team this year but that doesn't bother him, for he's had green teams in the past and come out on top.

The first meet is scheduled for December, 1st. The opponent has not been selected as yet.

The boys to watch are Salisbury, Doyle and Thellar at Shot-put, Kenealy, last year's champ in the 300 yard dash, and a youngster named Bill Squires for whom Doc has great hopes.

The special subject discussed was "Principles of Work Simplification", and each of the two men is especially qualified to speak thereon since Mr. Goodwin is a consultant and assistant professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he developed the work simplification being taught at that institution. He acts as consultant for an extensive list of industrial companies and has been associated with the work Simplification Conference at Lake Placid, New York.

Mr. Bellet is assistant to the comptroller, H. P. Hood & Sons Company, Charlestown. He is a certified public accountant and is also coordinator of accounting methods at H. P. Hood & Sons. He has held various positions in office management, and also has attended the Lake Placid Conference.

The subject at the second meeting was "The Tools of Work Simplification", and feature as discussion leaders Roland A. Mangini, Newton, and Robert A. Patten, Medford. In addition to public accounting experience, Mr. Patten has been senior instructor at the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, and has had industrial experience as Controller of Universal Winding Company and as Controller of Rexall Drug Company.

The subject of the third session was "Case Studies on Simplification for Specific Accounting Operations", and John V. van Pelt and Frank L. Tucker, Wellesley, will serve as discussion leaders.

Mr. van Pelt is Controller of the Kendall Company. He has held positions as Assistant Controller of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, Controller of Federal Water and Gas Corporation, and Accounting Company. His remarks will include discussion of Kendall's procurement system.

Armenian Night At Crosby PTA Enjoyed

A capacity audience contributed to a very successful "Armenian Night" at the Crosby P. T. A. meeting Nov. 14. The attendance of a large number of people outside the Crosby group showed that widespread interest in the series of "Brotherhood" programs is being maintained.

A film entitled, "You Can Change the World", was shown at the beginning of the program. The movie is an explanation of the Christoph movement and what it means.

One of the highlights of the evening was the singing by some of the members of the Armenian National Chorus of Boston under the direction of Miss Siranouch der Manuelian. This group sings without accompaniment or notes and is outstanding in this country for its singing of Armenian songs. The Association was privileged to hear this group.

The speaker was Mr. Setrak Minas who teaches at Northeastern University and at Medford High School. He commended the Crosby group for its series of Brotherhood programs. Mr. Minas sketched in the history of Armenia from pre-Christian times to the present, bringing out the fact that ever since the fifteenth century the Armenian people have struggled against tyranny. The Armenian Republic was founded in 1918 with a constitution embodying the same democratic ideals for which America stands. Mr. Minas brought out President Wilson's far-sightedness in attempting to convince this country of the necessity of helping Armenia after the first World War. Failure in this has meant that Armenia to-day is completely dominated by the Russians, and the Armenian people are captives of the Communist regime. Mr. Minas said that because of the long suffering of the Armenian people, they are one of the best defenders of democracy.

Armenian delicacies were served at the close of the meeting and a handwork were on display.

The committee included Mesdames Missak Berberian, S. Hittian, John Kezerian, W. Martin, Minas Minasian, Charles Nahigian, Arthur Chanian, Hovnan Sahagian, Sarkisian, George Shahian, E. Tasrahian, Setrag Sulahian, and Harry Yacoubian. The co-chairman were Mrs. Peter Harutunian and Mrs. Siragan G. Bengian.

THEY GAMBLLED WITH DEATH

A husband and wife suffered serious injuries in this car which was struck by another on a curve made slippery by autumn rain and fallen leaves. The husband driver was unable to avoid the fast moving oncoming car which skidded as it rounded the curve too fast.

During the fall months when leaves are on streets and roadways arowet, pavements are doubly dangerous. Stopping, turning and quick bursts of speed often result in skids which throw your car out of control.

Christmas Seal
Campaign Opens

This week marks the opening of the Christmas Seal Campaign. The three little angels featured on the 1950 Christmas Seals, sets of which will be delivered to many residents throughout Massachusetts, can be considered "celestial messengers of health," Dr. Claire Twinnam, Chairman of the Middlesex Health Association Seal Sale Committee, said today. Christmas Seals have always been messengers of health because they represent the peoples' fight against tuberculosis and remind us that this nation-wide battle must continue until complete victory over the disease is won.

The 1950 Seal Sale Campaign in Middlesex County, conducted by the Middlesex Health Association, county tuberculosis agency, will officially continue until Christmas Day. Christmas Seal funds are the only support of the "Middlesex Health Association, which carries on a year-round campaign against tuberculosis in an attempt to reduce the incidence of the disease in this county. He pointed out that all the free chest x-ray surveys conducted throughout the county are made possible by the sale of Christmas Seals.

Dr. Twinnam said that this year's Christmas Seal was designed by Andre Dugo, internationally known artist, writer and illustrator of children's books. The red and green 1950 Seal features three-child angels. The Seal also bears the red double-barred cross which is the registered insignia of the National Tuberculosis Association, and the international symbol of the campaign against tuberculosis. When Mr. Dugo was asked what inspired him to use child-angels on the 1950
Christmas Seal he replied that Christmas is primarily a children's season and that angels figured prominently in the very first Christmas.

Dr. Twinnam field confident that Mr. Dugo's inspiration would likewise stimulate Middlesex County residents to get behind the 1950 Seal Sale and make it a great success.

Tobin Heads Labor Committee Aiding 1951 Heart Fund

WASHINGTON, D. C. Describing the work of the American Heart Association as an important factor in the national effort to keep America strong Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin has again undertaken the chairmanship of the National Labor Committee for the 1951 HEART Campaign.

The $8,000,000 fund-raising drive will take place during the month of February and will be conducted by the American Heart Association and its affiliates to support a program of scientific research, public education, and community service—a program designed to reduce the tremendous drain of heart diseases on the health and vitality of the American people.

In accepting active direction of the National Labor Committee for the third successive year, the Secretary of Labor emphasized that "in these days of continual international crisis, it is vital that the United States utilize all its available human resources to preserve freedom. Our manpower needs are most critical, both in the armed forces and in our industry, which is called upon to produce equipment and arms for defense of democracy throughout the world."

"Under these circumstances, we cannot afford the continuance of an annual death toll of more than 630,000 Americans as a result of various heart ailments. Nor can we afford the partial or complete loss to our labor force of a large percentage of the 10,000,000 Americans who are disabled by heart and circulatory diseases."

"The work of the American Heart Association and its affiliates in seeking ways and means to reduce this heavy toll, and in rehabilitating the disabled victims of heart disease so that they can once more lead useful, productive lives, is of high importance."

"I am convinced that organized labor, as in the past, will rise to meet this emergency and extend its wholehearted cooperation to this crusade against the major medical problem in this country."

Secretary Tobin expressed his appreciation for the full cooperation which he has received in the past from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Phillip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the leaders of the various AFL, CIO, and independent international unions.

Assistant Secretaries of Labor Ralph Wright and Robert Creasey will assist Tobin in his duties as national chairman.

Philharmonic Concert Provides Fine Music

BY Leighton Kerner

The Arlington Philharmonic Society gave its Annual Fall Concert in Robbins Memorial Town Hall last Wednesday evening (Nov. 15), and those who were lucky enough to be there heard some beautiful and exciting music making.

Robert W. Proctor led his all-ways dauntless and sometimes inspired musicians in the overture to Mozart's opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," and Mendelssohn's symphonic cantata, "The First Walpurgis Night" with the 100-voice chorus assisted by Shirley MacArthur, Keith Phinney, and Ralph MacGann as mezzo-soprano, tenor, and baritone soloists, respectively.

That the 45-piece orchestra was just the right size for the Town Hall was apparent from the start. The Mozart overture was given a merrily full-blooded treatment characterized by crisp attacks, faultless blending of strings and winds in the loud passages, and an uncanny technical skill in the quicksilver string passages.

In the next number, Beethoven's Sixth, or "Pastoral," Symphony, the orchestra really got a chance to show its stuff. Orchestra's all over the world have, at one time or another, run afoul of this 40-minute tour through the country, but the Arlingtonians brought it off remarkably well.

The first section of the symphony, supposedly picturing the joy that Beethoven felt in getting out into the country away from those Vienna bill collectors, seemed a little soggy in spots as if the players were communing with nature a little more than with Mr. Proctor.

Things got much better in the second movement, which usually seems to last forever unless it is played as magically as it was at this concert. The slow, peaceful music, representing a country brook, flowed with a rich and golden string tone. The only mishap occurred in the first of the two sets of birdcall imitations, a page that Beethoven should have thrown into the fireplace anyway.

The slightly tipsy country dance of the third movement went along under a wonderfully alcoholic glow. Except for a sloppy attack on the repeat, the orchestra was in top form. As for the storm music, we can't recall having heard the warning entrance of the cello and double basses played with such a freezing suspense.

The finale, with its song of sunshine, had the benefit of the orchestra's solid and shining tone, a well played horn call, and stirring brass at the end.

The big news of the concert, however, was the final piece, Felix Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night." This symphonic cantata, or, as the program calls it, "Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra" is a setting of a poem by Goethe depicting the traditional "Witches Sabbath" (similar to our Halloween) in which the ancient Druids tried to scare the Christians, who had persecuted them. In looking up the history of this choral work, we uncovered only two previous performances in this vicinity—in 1874 by the Harvard Musical Association, and in 1903 by the Handel and Haydn Society.

The performance of the entire piece was especially notable for the English diction of the soloists and chorus.

In a drawn out orchestral introduction, the horn (excellently played), in dialogue with the rest of the orchestra, called forth the evil spirits of the night. This eventually led into a hymn to Spring, sung by the chorus with tenor solo.

A sort of Witches Chorus followed with a mezzo-soprano intoning a Gilbert and Sullivan-like ditty that sounded something like—"Sons and daughters, if detected Naught but death can be expected" Then came the chorus with baritone solo, "Disperse, disperse, ye gallant men!" incisively played and sung.

The next part was the master stroke of the composition, "Come the torches brightly flashing!" for a baritone solo and male chorus with a terse, staccato vocal line set off by swift runs up and down in the orchestra.

After a build-up and then a quieting-down, there came the chorale-like finale, "Thy light shall shine forever," for chorus and orchestra a window-rattling climax that sent the audience home happy.
